

NO RIFT AS YET

The Uncertainty Is Unbroken

As to Who Will Be Nominated

In the Great Convention.

McKinley Is Elected Chairman.

He Makes a Ringing Speech.

Gossip of the Big Politicians.

Each Side Playing For Votes.

A Resume of Yesterday's Developments in Minneapolis—What the Outlook Is.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—If anybody can predict what the outcome of this great and glorious convention is to be, he will earn the distinction of being wiser than the illustrious and sapient Solomon. There is not the slightest clue to a probable result that would bear an instant's pursuit. The talk is all talk except what is enthusiasm and there is not a chance for any marked increase in the latter. The city is so crowded that there is room for nothing more tangible than enthusiasm, and it sprouts out and upward with and without provocation at intervals from one minute to five minutes apart. When it does explode the whole town is shaken with wild and exultant shouts, the burden of which run:

"Blaine, Blaine of the state of Maine; Reed will go out, and Jim in again."

"Michigan, Michigan, Alger, too. He is the man to lead us through—Zip-a-bon—Alger—What's—He's all right."

Then, too, Harrison howls rent the air, but they are not so musical nor do they have the rollicking jingle of the Blaine contributions to campaign song. Occasionally a shout goes up for McKinley and Reed and Rusk, but a singular and notable feature is the entire omission of the name of Gresham.

The Michigan delegation will vote for Alger. This is done, I am informed, to prevent any votes going to the president, for it is understood that at least six members, if left to themselves, will vote for him. Aside from this the Alger boom is not a healthy growth, although the Blaine men nurse the enthusiasm for him to keep the Harrison men of the delegation in line.

Great Enthusiasm Manifested.

Today when the temporary organization gave way to the permanent and Governor McKinley was escorted to the chair the convention broke into a wild and ungovernable bedlam of exultant enthusiasm. The band started to play, but the bass drum and tuba were drowned in the din and clatter of 10,000 discordant voices, all intent on yelling at the highest pitch. Hats, canes and banners went up into the air, and the scene on the floor was without a parallel in my experience. When quiet had been partly restored Governor McKinley proceeded to speak, but at every pause he was interrupted by applause and cheers.

My opinion yesterday was that Harrison would be nominated as his forces are splendidly organized and working with great energy. These Hoosiers are politicians that know how to work and their emissaries are at work on every side. My opinion is changed today. I have no opinion on the great question. Despite the belief to the contrary the Blaine forces are not well organized and lack concentration. Their enthusiasm is gigantic in quantity and quality, but it lacks cohesiveness and spontaneity. The delay in the reports of the committees on resolutions and credentials will postpone balloting for candidates until Friday—possibly until Saturday. Were I to be asked what in my opinion the result will be, I would answer: Any person in Grand Rapids who reads the excellent reports made by the United Press in THE HERALD has just as much and just as reliable information on the subject upon which to base an opinion as I have or anybody else has.

E. D. CONGER.

Who the Six Antis Are.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—[Midnight.]—Delegates-at-large Blodgett today received a telegram to vote for Harrison. The dispatch was signed by Gilbert, Atty, Hollister, Dwight, Goss and some ten or dozen others. Mr. Blodgett will probably give Alger a complimentary vote, but after that he is unequivocally for Blaine. There are probably six Blaine men in the delegation who will not vote for Alger at all. They are: Fred Lee of Dowagiac, Porter of Port Huron, Merriman of Hartford, Diggins of Cadillac, Robinson of Houghton county, and probably two others. The reason Grand Rapids was not chosen for holding the state convention is because of her multiplicity of candidates.

E. D. CONGER.

Estimate on First Ballot.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—[1 a. m.]—A carefully prepared estimate of the present preferences of the delegates was sent out tonight which will state that on the first ballot Blaine will receive 424 votes; Harrison, 420; Alger, 48; Reed, 6, and McKinley 2, total, 900. It is also a fact that there is a strong sentiment among the Illinois delegates in favor of polling a full vote there for Senator Cullum, and the Ohio delegates are considering the advisability of polling their entire first vote for McKinley. The latter possibilities would, of course, change the above figures, but would probably take more votes from the Harrison column than from Blaine's. It is plainly evident that no one will be nominated on the first ballot. Reed support comes from Massachusetts.

E. D. CONGER.

Captured for Blaine.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—There are six delegates from California who have been standing out for Harrison. They are being flooded with telegrams from home and from their state central committee to vote and use all honorable means to secure the nomination of Mr. Blaine. Tonight the alternates from California held a meeting and passed resolutions favoring the nomination of Blaine, and united in a petition to their state central committee asking the removal of the regular delegates and that the alternates be empowered to vote for Blaine in their stead. Voorhees, formerly of Grand Rapids, was made chairman of the alternate delegation.

E. D. CONGER.

STATE CONVENTION CALLED.

It Will Be Held at East Saginaw on July 20.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—The republican state committee of Michigan, a majority of whose members is here, has called the convention to nominate a state ticket for July 20, at East Saginaw.

Two caucuses of the Michigan delegation were held today which five members of the delegation refused to attend. They were Messrs. Merriman, Porter, Lee, Kelly and Robinson. Mr. Kelly is not known to be a Harrison man, but the other four are. The reason given by these delegates for their course is that they believe that Colonel Duffield is using General Alger to play into the hands of the Blaine managers, and they refuse to aid in such a movement. Colonel Duffield said to a correspondent of the Detroit News this afternoon that if the vote had occurred today President Harrison would have received more votes from the Michigan delegation than would Mr. Blaine. The entire day was spent trying to bring these men into line so as to give General Alger the full vote of Michigan, at least on the first ballot, but without effect.

"General Alger's name will be presented to the convention," said Senator Stockbridge this evening to a reporter for the United Press.

"Will he have the support of the entire delegation?" was asked.

"No," he replied, "he will not. There are five members of the delegation who will not vote for him."

"Do you think that General Alger has any chance of success under these conditions?"

"The result depends entirely upon what the friends of Mr. Harrison may do. They may choose between Mr. Blaine and General Alger. There is not a sufficient number of votes under the control of the managers of either the president or Mr. Blaine to nominate him on the first ballot."

"How many votes, senator, do you figure out for the two leading candidates?"

"Mr. Harrison has about 375 and Mr. Blaine probably the same."

"How many votes do you count for General Alger?"

"With those from his own state he will have fifty or sixty."

"If that is the case, senator, one or the other candidates must have more than 375?"

"Well, Mr. Blaine has enough, I am satisfied, with the votes that will be cast for Alger to nominate him. The Harrison campaign is being most admirably managed. I never saw organization equal to that shown in this contest. It was only three weeks ago that the president told me that while he would be gratified at receiving a re-nomination, he would not enter into any contest for it nor permit his friends to do so. The conditions are vastly changed now, however, and I suppose he could not control his friends. But I do not believe they can make it."

COMMITTEE ON CREDENTIALS.

It Will Stay in Session All Night if Necessary.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—The committee on credentials remained in session from 9:30 a. m. till 5:30 p. m. with only a brief intermission for luncheon at 1:30. When they adjourned they had completed the consideration of all the contested cases in Alabama, except that from the fifth district. In the intervals between adjournment and the re-assembling of the night session members of the committee were besieged by reporters, delegates and others interested in the outcome of their deliberation for information. It was difficult to secure details of the action of the committee, owing to the many ballots taken and the inability of the average man to remember figures. It is impossible to give a correct statement of the votes taken in the committee, but decisive ones show a majority of only one. In these instances the majority recorded was in favor of Harrison delegates, notwithstanding the fact that early in the day the motion made by the Harrison men to report to the convention the list of the uncontested delegates was defeated by a majority of four. It was upon this vote that the claim was made and conceded that the committee, as constituted, was in favor of Mr. Blaine. After the committee had finished the presentation of the Alabama contest the committee called for the papers and arguments. The first vote was upon the delegates-at-large. The vote upon this proposition was twenty-six to twenty-two, but before the vote was announced the members from Colorado and Pennsylvania changed their votes from no to yes in order to move a reconsideration. The motion to reconsider upon motion of one of the Harrison members was laid on the table by a vote of twenty-four to twenty-three. Chairman Cogswell casting the deciding vote.

Sustained the Committee.

The first of the district contests taken up was the eighth, and in this the committee sustained the national committee, which placed Messrs. Austin and Ashford upon the roll. In the third district case the friends of the administration were of the opinion that there was room to doubt the justice of the claim made by Messrs. Menefee and Treadwell, the contesting delegates, and on their motion Messrs. Hendricks and Fitzpatrick were seated unanimously. In the fourth district the administration members of the committee were of the opinion that the contesting delegates, Messrs. Austin and Ashford, were entitled to be seated. In the third district case the friends of the administration were of the opinion that there was room to doubt the justice of the claim made by Messrs. Menefee and Treadwell, the contesting delegates, and on their motion Messrs. Hendricks and Fitzpatrick were seated unanimously. In the fourth district the administration members of the committee suffered a defeat by a vote of twenty-two to twenty-six, and the action of the national committee in seating Wilson and Bland was sustained. The last case disposed of before the adjournment was that of the first district. Here the national committee had given the contestants and contestees half a vote each, but by the deciding vote of Chairman Cogswell against the contestants, Houston and Matthews, were seated and ordered to cast the full vote. As stated it is impossible to certify officially the figures given, but they are the unofficial information furnished by several members of the committee, and are believed to be correct. When the committee reassembled at 8:30 it was understood to be the program to take up the remaining districts in Alabama and then go on the Louisiana contest. The administration members of the committee expressed themselves as in favor of an all night session if necessary to dispose of the cases that remain, and if they control the action of the committee there will be no adjournment till the roll of delegates is completed.

MAIN ENTRANCE TO CONVENTION HALL.

Not Representative.

Speaking of the result in the committee this evening, Mr. Pinchback, of Louisiana, a member of the old national committee, said to a reporter for the United Press that he did not believe the vote represented the division of the administration and anti-administration members, neither did the vote turn upon the question of sustaining the regular organization of the state, but in his opinion the color line was drawn. If the organization that was represented by the delegates placed on the rolls by the national committee was recognized the republican party in Alabama would be under the charge of an executive committee, the chairman of which is a young colored man residing at Anniston.

"That," said Mr. Pinchback, "is the action of the administration committee. I cannot believe that the majority shown by the vote this forenoon has become so important an issue."

Mr. Pinchback is an anti-Blaine man and his explanation of the action of the committee was brought to the attention of Harrison Reed, member of the committee from Indiana.

GRAND ROUND-UP FOR BLAINE.

A Magnificent Blaze of Enthusiasm for the Plumed Knight.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—The Blaine boomers indulged in a final grand street round-up, and the packed condition of the thoroughfares through which the aggregation passed indicated that a large proportion of the population of the twin cities had turned out for the occasion. Everybody, boy or man, wanted to carry a tri-color plume or to wear a Blaine badge was welcome to fall in behind and so the line stretched out to a great length. A mounted escort of police under command of Major Henderson, chief of police, and the Egin band of fifty pieces marched at the head. In the various divisions were Blaine clubs from Iowa, Chicago, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, California, North and South Dakota and the Pearl Button club of Eau Claire, Wis., which declared by transparency that they carried the plume. The Chicago club made an especially fine appearance, which secured for it an ovation all along the route. There were pictures of Blaine without number and transparencies declaring that he was the people's choice, the champion of reciprocity and the next president. The Indiana division showed its bitterness by displaying a transparency with the inscription: "If Harrison is nominated he will lose the state by 20,000." And another in this was: "If Blaine is nominated he will carry Indiana by 10,000." All along the line a continuous shout of "Blaine, Blaine, James G. Blaine," was kept up and heartily responded to by the crowds on the sidewalks. Plenty of red fire was burned. The line stretched on for a good distance over Hennepin avenue and caused a block of the electric cars for nearly a mile. Some of the clubs went through a drill as they marched. Most of them carried canes, some of them colored sun umbrellas. Some blew tin horns and with the ringing of the electric gongs on the cars, the beating of drums and the shouting of the crowd, the noise was deafening.

The procession passed through the principal streets of the city and then disbanded, the remnants of it kept on parading until midnight.

BANDYING OF RUMORS.

An Attempt to Boom Reed Falls Through.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 8.—There were sensational and conflicting rumors about the mass delegation this evening. One of the delegates gave an interview to the United Press afternoon, saying that the delegation was arranging to go solely for Reed or McKinley. Then a story was published in an extra morning newspaper that twenty-nine of the thirty delegates had agreed to go to Reed on the first ballot. There is a grain of truth in both statements, but no bigger than the grain of salt, with which both of them must be taken. The mass delegation held a meeting this morning, at which Mr. Fairchild of Boston, who has been credited to the Blaine forces, offered a resolution that the delegation cast its solid vote on the first ballot for Thomas B. Reed. Mr. Atwood of Boston, who is a McKinley man, moved that McKinley be seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man," suggested that the matter would better be postponed. So the delegation adjourned till 10 a. m. tomorrow, when another attempt will be made to unite on a dark horse. The Harrison men tonight claim a gain of two in the Pennsylvania delegation. They say McConnell and Gough, who voted for Mr. Blaine in the state caucus, have announced that they did so for the purpose of securing the nomination of McKinley for Reed. Neither proposition was seconded. Then Jesse M. Gove of Holyoke, "the original Blaine man,"